An age where children and young adults are bereft of any formal Christian knowledge.

An age where the majority have never been taught the Lord's Prayer and probably will have only attended church once or twice in their lives for weddings.

An age of hungry souls who have no preconceived ideas about church and Christianity. They don't think it's boring or irrelevant - they simply have no idea what it's all about and would love to be told and shown.

This is not a generation to feel disappointed with or angry at, but one that provides new and wonderful opportunities to present the gospel of Jesus Christ in vibrant and relevant ways.

This generation of children and young adults are often referred to as the 'Mosaic' generation and have followed the much talked about Generation X. They don't think like previous generations or have the same expectations and value systems. We need to come afresh to this group with mosaic understanding and approaches.

They are a generation who are techno savvy, religiously open-minded, relationship oriented and will be the longest-living, best educated, wealthiest and most globally conscious generation to have lived.

However they still need to hear the old, old story in ways that will draw them into a real and invigorating relationship with God.
